Product Design

Technology Product Design? This is a rigorous and practical subject and an obvious progression from GCSE Product Design.

However, the most important pre-requisite is creativity and imagination and an interest in designing and making products that solve real problems.

Product design determines how a product looks and how it is organized. An important part of product design is deciding which features are included and which are left out. You also have to think about which features should be prioritized and built first. It's hard to say exactly what makes something well designed or not.
